1. [] the Taegliche Rundschau continued its work without any significant changes. All rumors about its dissolution had subsided.
2. [] a German deputy editor-in-chief was appointed and introduced by Sokolov (fnu) to the editorial board. He is Theo Grundy, who was formerly chief editor of Ostseezeitung published in Rostock. He has also been working for Neues Deutschland and was once assistant editor of BZ am Mittag. So far little is known about this new figure. His appointment was allegedly decided even before the events of 17 June. His appearance is interpreted by some members on the staff of the paper as an indication that German personnel will gradually take over. However, the Soviet staff has otherwise remained unchanged.
3. The following Soviet officials of the paper are on leave: Bernikov (fnu), Kubariova (fnu), Stepanov (fnu), Lusganov (fnu) and Rachkov (fnu). It is rumored that Rachkov may not return.
4. The Soviet Personnel Manager of the Taegliche Rundschau is Gusev (fnu). He is married; his wife lives with him in the Karlshorst compound.
